

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am making a plea to the FCC to NOT make any changes to the existing rules. An airplane is a very tight and confining environment. Most people are not aware of appropriate cell phone usage. Allowing cell phones to be used on airplanes is an invitation to disaster as it will lead to a great increase in air rage incidences. A lot of people also enjoy the quiet and solitude a long flight offers (if the plane is not too crowded) This is a great chance to relax and meditate. Please don't take this away from us. Refraining from using the cell phone usage for a few hours cannot cause any harm to any one. If it is that urgent, a person can use the phones that are currently provided by the airlines on board. Thank you for your consideration.

Zia R. Khan